Eugene M. I'm not sure if there is a clear logic somewhere in this writer's concept of merging the earthly world with the transcendent, however I am looking at the themes he has introduced and would like to see if they hang together and can draw the story out coherently. Robert J. Therefore, on every morrow, are we wreathing A flowery band to bind us to the earth, Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth Of noble natures, of the gloomy days, Of all the unhealthy and o'er-darkn'd ways Made for our searching: yes, in spite of all, Some shape of beauty moves away the pall From our dark spirits.
